Dear Jenny,

I would like to thank ICP Support for the generous donation of £12,500 you have given to our research group. This will be used to support two studies. The first is a project to find new genetic causes of ICP. We will use new technology to look for genetic changes in women with the disease. The second project is aiming to establish whether the babies of women with ICP are at risk of abnormal heart rhythms, and whether UDCA can protect against this. We used your donation to buy a fetal heart monitor for studies of affected women. If the trustees would like more information about either of these studies I will be happy to send it. I am also confident that we will have published research papers from this work over the forthcoming year.

Best wishes,

Catherine Williamson
